

How to Access Island Health's Seven Generations Course

The online Cultural Safety training, “Seven Generations”, developed by Island Health’s Indigenous Health Program is available for the public. The course is a 6-hour, self-paced, non-facilitated course and is intended to improve health outcomes for present and future generations of Indigenous Peoples living on Vancouver Island.

The course provides an opportunity for healthcare providers to strengthen their cultural awareness and to enhance their ability to establish culturally safe, respectful engagements and environments.

Important: There may be aspects of this on-line training that bring up uncomfortable feelings about Canada’s collective history and the current social realities facing many Indigenous Peoples. We encourage all learners, if needed, to arrange appropriate support before commencing this course.

To create a LearningHub account:

1. Go to the LearningHub home page.
2. Click Sign up for an account (or Login to LearningHub if you already have an account).

Note: You will get a message advising you not to create multiple accounts. If you do not have an existing account, click CONTINUE.

3. Complete the profile to create your account.
 - An email will be sent to your email address you used to create your account. Follow the steps in the email to activate your account.
 - When asked to select role in the organization, select General Public and click CONTINUE.

To access the Seven Generations course:

1. Return to the LearningHub home page and login using your new credentials.
2. Enter “Seven Generations” in the Search Courses field.
3. Click Search Courses.
4. Select the Seven Generations course link.
5. Click on Register Course to begin the course.
 - When you have completed all 5 modules in the course, a certificate of completion will be available through your profile under My Learning History.