

Purpose and Goals:

A new Ministry of Health-approved Urgent and Primary Care Centre (UPCC) is being designed, built, and delivered in the Comox Valley, with a target opening date of November 1, 2027. The approximately 8,000-square-foot facility will expand access to urgent access to primary care services for the community.

An engagement group has been established to support the project throughout its development and implementation. The group meets when needed to review actions, opportunities and next steps for the project. Current members include representatives from the Comox Valley Division of Family Practice, Indigenous partners, Community Primary Care Network partners and interested internal partners.

We value patient partners in this engagement group for their experiences, insights and oversight as this initiative (build to open) progresses over the next 1.5 years.
